In the scope of greening its main campus, and transforming it into a carbon neutral campus, USEK will be installing the largest PV station to be installed at an educational institution in Lebanon. This station will be co-financed by USEK and UNDP CEDRO project that chose USEK among the seven beneficiaries of its fourth phase.

The station will have the capacity of more than 200 kWp that will be mounted on top of the buildings C, D, AM and H respectively. It will allow USEK to generate around 320 MWh per year, which represents approximately 10% of yearly electrical consumption.

This will help reducing the dependency of our campus on diesel generators, and consequently lowering the campus CO2 emissions by more than 200 tons of CO2 per year.
