

JOSEPH EL RAYESS

Joseph is assistant professor and coordinator of the master's in food engineering and master in enology programs at the Faculty of Agricultural and Food Sciences at USEK. He is also the coordinator of several research projects including food processing, food safety, microbial interactions in food, food microbiology, and wine chemistry and processing, all in collaboration with LARI, Lebanese University, Toulouse University and ISVV of Bordeaux. Joseph is the author and editor of the book "Wine: Phenolic Composition, Classification and Health Benefits".