

TRACEY MANSELL

Tracey is a British workshop trainer with over 15 years of experience providing interactive workshops covering a variety of key training topics for corporate and academic settings. Her areas of focus include verbal and non-verbal communication, understanding personality types, team building, conflict resolution, and employee success through improved communication, skills we use every day when we communicate and work with other people, both individually and in groups. Tracey designs and delivers her workshops in a way that make its simple for participants to understand how to use new skills and improve their professional and interpersonal communication skills in English.
