USEK TODAY

USEK has always had a strong financial support culture. Yet, the catastrophic impact of the economic collapse, enduring political uncertainty, and the ongoing COVID pandemic Lebanon has witnessed since 2019 have affected the stability of the education sector countrywide. The challenges our university has experienced have prompted the re-evaluation of our operational model to keep standing by our community and maintain quality education and a positive, future-orientated environment for everyone.

This approach is based on solidarity between our administrative and academic bodies, university governance, and students. 90% of our income comes from student tuition fees and more than 70% of our students benefit from financial support, amounting to over 4 million dollars annually. The easiest solution would have been to raise tuition fees, our largest source of income, or lower student financial support, representing approximately one-third of our expenses.

However, instead, USEK's mission of service to the community has led to plans for achieving the following targets:

- Keeping USEK accessible to all by maintaining financial support to its students with tuition fees at the official BDL rate (1,515 LBP/USD).
- Ensuring a healthy work environment for faculty and staff through various financial and professional incentives.
- Securing the long-term financial sustainability of the university.

To this purpose, USEK's income diversification rethinks the operational model of the university from an institution that delivers diplomas to one that creates job opportunities.
